FEDERATED IT NAMED AS A 2014 VOLTAGE AWARD FINALIST

Washington, DC (May 19, 2014) — SmartCEO Magazine announced today that Federated Information Technologies has been nominated as a 2014 Voltage award finalist. The Voltage Awards program celebrates technology innovators and implementers — champions of the role technology plays in the business community and drivers of the technology sector. The finalists are recognized for their creative vision, strong leadership and innovative solutions. Only 26 companies in Washington DC have been recognized as finalists and these DC-based companies collectively generate more than $360 million in annual revenue and employ over 1,635 individuals.

“It’s no secret that the evolution of technology is what drives business forward. These companies are pushing the limits of innovation — streamlining processes, finding efficiencies and discovering the next great product,” says Jaime Nespore, Regional President of SmartCEO Media. “Sharing their stories is a humbling experience as these companies are the catalysts for our region’s growth and prosperity.”

Each year, an independent committee of local business leaders selects finalists based on the quality of nominations submitted. This year’s finalists will be profiled in the May/June issue of SmartCEO magazine and celebrated at an awards ceremony on May 20, 2014 at the National Press Club.

“Every business in this highly competitive space faces the challenge of shrinking federal budgets and evolving technologies. You either adapt or disappear. Our drive to stay relevant means attracting and retaining the absolute best talent in the industry, investing in their success, and creating an environment where a diversity of opinion is welcome and encouraged. Great ideas can come from all levels in the organization and rapid-prototyping creativity helps us deliver quality to our customers.” shared Matthew Bucholz, President of Federated IT. “This recognition as a “Voltage” finalist means a lot to us and we appreciate it. Our employees have worked very hard to make this company a success.”
